BANK ONE, CLEVELAND SUPPORTS ART MUSEUM EXHIBITION

"Tradition," "excellence" and a "commitment to community"...these are words which describe The Cleveland Museum of Art as it celebrates its 75th year of service to Northeastern Ohio residents. Bank One, Cleveland is proud to highlight the growth and development of the Museum through the sponsorship of Object Lessons: Cleveland Creates an Art Museum. "The rich and colorful history of The Cleveland Museum of Art, its vibrancy and growth, closely parallel that of the City of Cleveland. In many ways, the Museum success is a success by and for all of us," said Karen Horn, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, Bank One, Cleveland.

Mrs. Horn continued, "At Bank One, we applaud the values of tradition, excellence and a sense of community which form the basis for the Museum's growth and which will be reflected in Object Lessons. Bank One's support for Object Lessons is our way of offering thanks to this community as we move into a new corporate headquarters and a way to underscore our belief that a financial institution is only as strong as the community it serves." Evan H. Turner, Director of The Cleveland Museum of Art, observes, "The mutual support of the Museum and the community--as most generously exemplified by Bank One's grant that makes this exhibition possible--is the story the exhibition tells. We are all united in our commitment to this great Museum, and we at the Museum are appreciative of Bank One's specific expression of confidence and commitment."

Bank One, Cleveland, has assets of $1.9 billion. It provides savings, checking and loan services to the people and businesses of Northeast Ohio through forty-six banking offices. Bank One, Cleveland is an affiliate of Banc One Corporation.
